Stop! Think before you eat that biscuit! Is it in any way fancy? If so, then you are a criminal! London, 1948 – the Ministry of Biscuits casts its sinister shadow over every elevenes in the land. Established to “control biscuits, and to control the idea of biscuits,” it prohibits decadent sweetmeats, such as the Gypsy Cream. Until a secretary-smitten junior designer creates a biscuit to “shake confectionery to its very foundations...”

40's British Light Music, Orwell's 1984 and Ealing Comedy inspired, this satirical musical by best-selling novelist Philip Reeve and award-winning playwright and composer Brian Mitchell. Starring Radio 4's David Mounfield, and Worthing's own Amy Sutton (Bard and Troubadour) and Murray Simon (Quorum Theatre Company).
